Faith Life Church Address Protective Orders

New Albany, Ohio – March 6, 2025 – Faith Life Church is aware that some individuals affiliated with our church have experienced ongoing harassment from external groups. This harassment has included targeted social media campaigns, false accusations, and persistent online attacks. As a result, some of these individuals have exercised their legal right to seek protective orders against those they believe are harassing them.

Faith Life Church is not a party to any legal action related to these filings. The individuals who have sought protective orders have done so based on their personal experiences and their right to feel safe in their daily lives. The legal system provides protective orders as a remedy for those who feel threatened or harassed, and these individuals have every right to avail themselves of such protection.

At Faith Life Church, we remain committed to truth, justice, and transparency. We encourage anyone with relevant information regarding any alleged misconduct to report it to the Licking County Sheriff's Office. We support due process and the proper legal channels to address concerns while also standing by our members' rights to protect themselves from harassment.
